

Imaginative & Creative: Wigwam Posts

Den making is one of the most effective methods for children to learn independently. Our Wigwam posts can be transformed into any wondrous creation that springs to your budding young learners minds.

This is a great way to develop children's PSED, understanding of the world and language skills. The pretend play games children will create from their newly designed dens will also help develop them physically. A great den making resource that can easily transferred over cultures to add interesting teaching elements.
