

Imaginative & Creative: Walk and Talk Seating Circle

These movable and open-ended sensory chairs can be used to create an environment that encourages group conversation and the development of language. Whether that comes from playful use of the space, or simply looking and talking through the slats. This gives an area to your garden for promoting discussion and social development. As part of your setup you could even incorporate materials to allow for den making, or move the seating apart to change the feel. It can also be a quiet and cozy space for storytelling. The sensory panels will give a different feel depending on the time of day, bringing changing moods to the the space.

This set comes with 6 seats at 3 different height, and a taller storage unit for loose play materials for child-led imaginative play.
